Dear Mr. Soo:

We have received your letter in regard to selling you our dogs. We have never been so thoroughly horrified and appalled as we were by your offer. We would rather have no money at all than to take the animals entrusted in our care and sell them to you for food. Our organization regards our dogs and cats as members of our families. We could no more think of selling them to anyone for food as we would our own children. Dogs are intelligent, feeling, loving and emotional creatures that depend on and trust humans for their well being. Putting dogs to death due to overpopulation is enough of a tragedy. We would rather see them euthanized and buried in landfills than to be used as you wish. You say that many Asians eat dog but we want you to know that this is the United States of America. It is not our practice to do any such thing here. If this is your practice, GO HOME, WE DO NOT WANT YOU HERE.

We request that we be taken off of your mailing list. We never wish to hear from you again and we hope that your company is soon out of business. If you need money, sell yourselves and leave our pets alone.
