

3920 $\frac{1}{2}$ Illinois St.
San Diego, 92104
1/7/96

Gentlemen:

Your idea of computerized verdicts would be a very valid one if gadgets could only vote their consciences. Judging the law under which a case is being tried is, ultimately, of greater importance than the facts of the given case. Everyone ought to vote his conscience at all times.

If a gadget has a conscience that can be utilised I would appreciate further information.

Sincerely,

Alan Rosen