

UNCLE SAM'S INDEPENDENCE DAY SPEECH

July 4, 2004

Ladies and Gentlemen, I'd like you to all line up to greet the President of the United States of America (cue Hail to the Chief) and receive a token of appreciation for your vote.

My fellow Americans, on this Independence Day we find that our independence has been eroded and our global stature diminished. We are a debtor nation and are involved in a global crisis many believe we helped to create and have mishandled.

The upcoming election finds us at a crossroads. This November we the people must choose the direction our country will take. Whether to continue on the path of the current administration or choose a new leader. Whatever the decision, we must hold our leaders accountable to make the world a better and safer place for all.

Express your rights while you still have them, and ensure that our government truly represents the will of the people. Thank you.
